

UVA Library Current Asset Management State February 2023

Further Context:

- Virgo is our main catalog user interface that is set up to search across multiple catalog systems.
- While some image assets are described and displayed within the ArchiVSpace Collection Management System, many remain on the server with limited metadata, inaccessible to general public.
- There are additional pieces that include content that we'd likely put into a DAMS if we had one and were going to use it including our etext content, some one-off collections (in Apollo), some details around JStorForum content.
- The three Libra services are currently out of scope for a DAM market scan but are additional locations we collect digital assets/collections from the UVA community for long term preservation and access. They are additionally backed up through APTTrust.
